Noah Francis Johnson releases his new single 'Fire' on TBC, taken from his second studio album Tiger Bay to be released by Last Ten Records and published by Universal. This has been a successful year for Noah Francis Johnson's musical career, following on from his debut album Life & Times. His recent EP Harvest Tree has had him enjoy international recognition and increased awareness from the likes of Quincy Jones and Jean-Michel Bernard, publicly likening his delivery to Ray Charles. This has all culminated in continued worldwide media coverage from BBC, BFBS Radio, a chart topping cover of his version of 'My Way' and The Independent naming him as 'one to watch'.

'Fire' is one of those rare songs full of meaning and acknowledgment of it's musical content, grabbing you instantaneously from the first line. Being such a diverse artist, Noah Francis Johnson excels within each genre he touches, this time opting for an L.A. Gospel choir to bring the record to its ethereal crescendo. "This is more than a song for me, it's a thousand prayers". It is interesting to note that before life as a musician Noah Francis Johnson studied priesthood for many years before being told by the church that music has his true calling. Told that one song is a thousand prayers, he decided to integrate himself into the world of music. The song is co-produced by Chris Kimsey (Rolling Stones, Peter Frampton, Jimmy Cliff) and Noah Francis Johnson himself. Recorded at Abbey Roads Studios, the song was mixed by Rob Hill (Korn, Cypress Hill) and features great musicians including Andy Treacey on drums (Faithless), Paul Stacey (Oasis, Black Crows) on lead guitar and John Robertson (Morcheeba) on rhythm guitar.

Noah Francis Johnson has been back and forth between the UK and US most of his life, being exposed to different music cultures that have subsequently influenced him on this latest single, 'Fire'. The single is to be launched at Abbey Road Church on TBC. Noah Francis Johnson is also due to feature in an upcoming four part BBC One Wales documentary to be broadcasted on the 24th November.
